Making a hollowed boat.

The summer clothing of both the reindeer-breeders and the coastal Koryaks was of the same cut as the winter dress, but was made of soft leather. They also used worn winter clothing in summer. Until the age of 5 or 6, children wore fur overalls (shirts with a cowl, trousers and boots all sewn together). In the children's overall there was an opening at the bottom, covered with a flap, tied to the belt with thongs. In infants' clothing, this flap was lined with dry moss or fine willow shavings.

On their feet, both adults and children of 6 years or older wore short fur stockings, with the fur inside, and over them suede boots, made with the fur outside. The footwear was soled with deer "fetlocks," with bearded-seal skin, or more rarely, with bearskin.

On their heads, men and boys wore a fur hat in the shape of a hood. It was edged in front with dog fur, or the fur of otter or Siberian marmot. It was made in such a way that the ears and forehead could be tightly covered, or exposed, if the wearer chose to do so. Hats were usually adorned with beads and tassels. Often they were made of alternating strips of white and dark fur. Women wore hats more rarely than men. Among the reindeer-breeders, women wore hats under their cowls only during migrations; the rest of the time they went bareheaded, or with the hood raised over their heads.

In the southern areas, kerchiefs were worn. Mittens were made of deer suede, with the fur outside.

Girls and women wore their hair with a center part and two braids, which they intertwined with ribbons of soft leather, trimmed with beads. The men usually cut their hair, leaving only a circle around the head.

Women and girls wore earrings, which they made by threading bright-colored beads on sinew. Such earrings were sometimes long enough to reach the shoulder.

According to 18th-century sources, many coastal Koryaks wore clothing of sealskin. By the beginning of the 20th century, however, it was only
